Rapid Preservation of Articulated Fossils

When organisms die, most are torn apart by scavengers, and the remainder decomposes in a few days or weeks. This recycling in the environment leaves no fossil record. Fossilization of entire, articulated organisms is evidence of rapid burial and preservation.

One of many fossil whales found near Ica, Peru

Image: JYB Devot, CC by SA 4.0