

Too Much Coal!

Coal is said to form from peat compressed five to ten times. A coal seam 60 m (about 200 ft) thick would require a peat bog five to ten times that deep. There is no bog that large. Coal could have formed from plant debris buried during the Flood.

Coal mine in Wyoming

Image: Carol M. Highsmith, 2015, Public Domain